PASTEUR.

The death of the great French scientist, Louis Pasteur, loses to the world a man, who, if good done to his fellows be a measure of one's greatness, certainly stood upon a high plane. Pasteur was born at Dole, France, in 1822. His family being well-to-do, he was enabled to begin, during boyhood, the pursuit of those studies for which he displayed a passion early in life. He entered the Ecole Normale, Paris, in 1837, and the famous college at Sarbonne in 1840. After passing a brilliant examination he became a member of the scientific class of the Academie Francaise, Paris. Chemistry he was passionately devoted to.

His first great work was accomplished in 1865-66, when he proved that the silkworm plague, which at that time was destroying the worms and ruining the great silk manufacturing industry of France, was caused by a parasite. At first his idea was ridiculed, the theory which then obtained credence among scientists generally being that of "spontaneous generation." However, his advice was finally followed, with the result that the plague was immediately checked.

Pasteur then took up the study of fermentation, declaring it to be the work of animalcules. He proved it by experimenting at high altitudes, showing that in pure, light air, where animalcules found it difficult to exist, there was no fermentation. Spontaneous generation was shown to be a myth. After years of the most careful and laborious inquiry and investigation, M. Pasteur came out boldly with the statement that all infectious and contagious disease is due to the existence and action of living organisms—bacteria. His efforts have so far enabled physicians to gain control of several deadly diseases; notably, cholera, hydrophobia and diphtheria.

Pasteur is the father of the germ theory of disease, and, before his death, established an institute in France where his ideas can be studied. This has become a great success, and its leading members believe that they will soon be able to successfully combat that dread malady, consumption, while the claim is made, by the very highest authorities in the medical profession, that in ten years no disease will be beyond control of the doctor. The world at large owes to the memory of Louis Pasteur a debt which it can never repay.

Fight at Midnight.

There was a short but fierce encounter between Tom Mearns and another person, in front of Tracy's, on Fort street Saturday night, in which Mearns, who was the aggressor, was badly worsted. He had some grievance against the other man, and, seeing him pass by, sprang upon him furiously. The man immediately turned, threw Mearns, and by the time the bystanders dragged them apart, had succeeded in decorating Mearns' head with a variety of cuts and bruises, while his clothing was torn to rags. The row took place about twenty minutes before twelve.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—Please allow a former member space for a few remarks anent the above League—now surviving its usefulness, as is generally believed.

In the report of the meeting held last night, the statement is made that much dissatisfaction was felt at the apathy shown by many former members, and especially by those who had been materially assisted to work and position, and further that on the 18th inst. those who are in default in the matter of dues are to be dropped from the record.

Now I am in full sympathy with the last proposition. The course adopted should have been the work of months ago, now it is too late in the day; and for the following reasons, which I shall try and explain with brevity.

1st: The American League, as such, has ceased to exist, and as a proof there are officers holding responsible positions, who never saw the U. S. A., contrary to the letter and spirit of the constitution, where it is distinctly set forth that none but American citizens are eligible for membership, not to mention office. Now comes my second reason.

2d: There are neither Americans nor American citizens members of the League, for it is held, and properly I think, all such, and myself included, have lost all right and title to that glorious privilege whether gotten by right of birth or acquired by law. Such are held in bonds of oath, and by reason of military service as citizens of the Hawaiian Republic, and it is now too late to squeal and ask that the stakes be drawn. The constitution and by-laws of the so-called League have been trampled under foot and are a dead letter, a veritable "dead cock in the pit." It is my belief that individually no member has any claim whatever on the great Republic to which we want at least affiliation.

The position then—as it appears to your writer—is this: Having a society with a constitution doubly dead, let one and all of the ruins build up a better structure, open to all nationalities having common interests, note the saving clause. There is nothing personal interred in the above, and I will join any new society founded in the interest of annexation, or as it has been called closer political union to America. I think reasons have been shown why there are so many members of the A. L. in default, and fail in attendance at meetings.

The usual band concert takes place at Emma square this evening at 7:30 and it is hoped that Marshal Brown will detail a white policeman to keep the crowd of young hoodlums who make a practice of attending the concerts in order. They pay no attention whatever to native police, and the latter very little to the hoodlums. The following program has been prepared:

2. Overture—"Victor Emanuel"—Kling
3. Gavotte—"The Hohenzollern"—Thiele
4. Selection—"The Huguenots"—Meyerbeer

Useful Old Horsecars.

Every day the cast-off horsecar is assuming a new form of usefulness. A railway company in Connecticut is now running an old horsecar into the country districts for the collection of the peach crop. The farmers bring down their fruit to the track and the car is loaded and run into Hartford and sold to the merchants. At Asbury Park an old car has been turned into a central station where storage batteries are recharged for electric launches, domestic lighting, sewing machines, phonographs, etc., and the proprietor has reaped a handsome return on his investment.

THE BIGGEST VOIE YET.

Nearly Fifteen Hundred Ballots Cast This Morning.

Nine hundred and two ballots were cast on Saturday, but the count was finished too late to be inserted in that day's paper. Today's count has been by far the largest of any yet, 1455 ballots having been taken from the box.

The subjoined tables include the votes of both days and show that Miss Giffard has largely increased her lead over Miss King, while Mrs. Renner has crept up very close for second place.

The Rambler and Cleveland have changed places, the former being the favorite, while the Monarch has gained nearly as many votes as both of them, making a close third.

Law Library Removal.

Upon a petition signed by Judge Cooper and fifteen members of the bar, the Justices of the Supreme Court have ordered the removal of the Law Library to the other end of the Judiciary building, "as the typewriter, telephone, and the necessary noise of the Clerk's department and courtroom renders its present location undesirable for study." The lawyers will likely have a telephone and call boy for themselves in the new quarters. Superintendent Rowell has the plans in hand for the removal.

The BULLETIN's telephone was kept busy on Saturday afternoon answering the inquiries of people who wanted to know the result of the bicycle balloting. The result was posted up outside the business office and Thrum's bookstore and attracted much attention at both places.

BULLETIN BICYCLE CONTEST.

The subjoined ballot, renewed in every issue, will be received at the BULLETIN business office, 609 King street, until 12 o'clock noon on Wednesday, November 27, 1895. Each No. of ballot will only be acceptable up to the time noted on it, and ballots will be counted and the results announced immediately thereafter. More than one vote for one bicyclist or one bicycle on a single ballot will render it void.

THE PRIZE.

The "Most Popular Bicyclist" according to the ballots cast will be awarded the prize of the "Best Bicycle" sold in Honolulu according to the same vote. The following named gentlemen have kindly consented to act as tellers and judges of the contest:

C. M. WHITE,

Timely Topics

The able address by Mrs. Sturtevant-Peet, president of the California Woman's Christian Temperance Union, on the occasion of the annual convention of that body in San Francisco, contained a passage which takes strong ground on the benefits of the bicycle. In speaking of physical culture and the relation of the clothes to the subject, she said:

"All know the value of a strong unhindered body. For this reason the banishment of the corset and restricting bands is a foregone conclusion."

Dress reform has pressed its claims for forty years, with little progress till the bicycle, that graceful, silent steed of motion, dashes through and bursts open the door of prejudice. This mystic wheel that we meet on every road and street is the mute but telling advocate of dress reform.

It has its virtues as well as its charms. It invites, yea, demands, simplicity in dress. It encourages physical exercise and utterly refuses to carry a drunken rider. Unlike the horse, it balks when touched by the hand of inebriety. It inconveniences and discourages the use of cigars and cigarettes to the number of 65,000, 000 a year. In short, the wheel is a reformer, and, though, it came not through the virtue of moral conception, we should welcome its presence as we do the advent of every new invention and corporate edict bearing the balm of sobriety, with the promise of stronger and better men and women."

This is a straightforward expression from an able woman who led the California forces of one of the greatest National organizations ever instituted for the uplifting of the race. The dignity and earnestness which characterize her opinion cast into the shades the hallow objections which some physicians have made to the bicycle. Mrs. Peet gives us to understand that in the sole aspect of requiring women to dress sensibly this simple instrument of locomotion has accomplished more at a dash than the preachers on sensible dress for women have been able to bring about in nearly half a century. With so eminent an indorsement as this, even the most timid woman who is not held in what amounts to physical restraint by father, husband or brother from obeying an instinctive impulse to dress rationally and enjoy life and health on a bicycle, may at least console herself with the reflection that her impulse was right and lament that she was born a few years too soon.

In addition to the above Mrs. Peet might have mentioned the saving in labor attained by the patent sprocket attached to the Tribune wheel, which amounts to over 15 per cent, no small consideration when ladies are concerned.

The Tribune is the wheel par excellence for ladies' use, it has the newest patents and improvements and can be run with 15 per cent less work than any other wheel in existence.

DRY GOODS

In Honolulu there is always something that demands the attention of the fair sex. More especially is this true when good bargains are offered. In catering to the wants of the Honolulu ladies, the merchants must buy judiciously and select only the most artistic designs. Especially is this true of white dress goods. I received by the AUSTRALIA a new line of these goods that are very pretty. They must be seen, however, to be appreciated. I also received a fine line of Ladies' Shirt Waists and Corsets. Now that the Cholera is over and life, socially, has resumed its normal condition, the dry goods business must increase materially in the next month. Anticipating this demand I have laid in this fine stock of goods and they are now ready for your inspection, and can be purchased at a reasonable figure.
